HELPING REAL PEOPLE
MAKE REAL LIVES

On October 27th, during United Nations weeklong 60th Anniversary celebration, designers, models, celebrities, humanitarians and Washingtonians joined together to work towards making poverty history.

"Fashion Fights Poverty (FFP)" was a spectacular event filled with style-seekers, eager to support the United Nations Association's partners (Style & Image Network, The ONE Campaign and the US Committee for UNDP). While mingling in an up-scale and festive environment, Washingtonians rallied to fight the emergency of extreme poverty.

FFP featured premier couture houses as well as local and international artisans/designers/collectives that have demonstrated how fashion, textiles and design have begun and will continue to alleviate poverty, and empower communities.

Fashion Fights Poverty, is about the promotion of these initiatives, a commitment to improving international living standards via new avenues of growth in the apparel industry, and the forging of new connections between government agencies, NGOs and the fashion community.
